PAPERWORKERS CONTINUE TO PICKET as the strike against Boise Cascade enters its third week. The Rumford mill is operating at about half its normal capacity, using salaried workers from the local mill and other Boise plants. Management has threatened to hire new workers to replace the strikers, but the striking paperworkers call this an idle threat.

Boise wants new work force—says final offer was its last

Boise Cascade stiffened its position this week against the striking United Paperworkers International Union Local #900.

As the strike entered its third week, a Boise spokesman told The Citizen the company will no longer negotiate with the striking union and will begin hiring new workers and putting them to work. "As soon as we have people ready to bring in, we'll bring them in," said spokesman Sam Donaldson.

Company and union negotiators met last Wednesday and again this Monday, under the guidance of federal mediator John LaPointe, but when asked about the negotiations, Mr. Donaldson said, "That's your word."

He emphasized that the Boise team is not negotiating. "We met to clarify our position, to explain (our final offer)," he said.

The final offer—made a day after the strike began—is final, Mr. Donaldson emphasized, adding, "They [the union leaders] still don't believe it's our final offer."

Union leaders say they want a better deal than what is offered in the so-called final offer. They are particularly upset by the provision allowing management to disregard a worker's classification and assign him to do any job.

"It would give the company the right to assign a man to work outside his skills," explained Local #900 president Don Barker.

Mr. Barker said it would lead to favoritism, with workers who ingratiate themselves to their bosses getting the better assignments and the other workers getting lesser assignments, such as cleaning and maintenance work.

Pickers on the line say it's also a matter of money. Once a worker is assigned to a job below his classification

Power outage in Bethel

A power outage of about a half-hour's duration occurred in the Bethel area Tuesday morning, beginning around 8 o'clock.

Central Maine Power's John Eliot said the disruption was caused by a small limb of tree being blown against a power line on the Northwest Bethel Road.

Normally, such an occurrence would not lead to the shutdown of the local grid, he explained. Under normal circumstances, equipment at the Bethel substation would automatically sense that the line was intact and restore power to the grid.

But this summer, crews are working on power poles replacing existing insulators with heavier-duty ones. While the work goes on, the automatic re-connect device at the substation has been shut off in order to not have the system start up automatically while a crewman may be working on a cable. Thus, in case of a power interruption caused by a branch, the entire grid must be checked before the power is turned back on, manually.

The upgrading of the insulators on the poles from the substation, down Cross Street and out the Rumford Road, is in preparation for increasing the voltage capability of the system. Whereas presently the maximum voltage being carried is 12,000 volts, this will be increased to 34,000 volts in the fall.

The increased capacity of the system is necessary, Mr. Eliot explained, due to the extra power demands at Sunday

Battle shaping up over hydro plan at Lake Umbagog

Environmentalists are preparing to fight the recently announced hydroelectric project on Lake Umbagog. Representatives from the New Hampshire Audubon Society and the Conservation Law Foundation—a Boston-based group—are expected to be present at the first public meeting on the project, in Errol, N.H., tomorrow night (Thursday).

Last month, the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission granted Swift River/Halsund Inc., of Portland, a three-year permit for economic and environmental studies of the project, which envisions generating 20 megawatts of electricity from coursing waters of Umbagog and the Rapid River through a 17-foot-diameter, three-mile tunnel to twin turbines. The hydro project would be the fifth-largest in Maine and would replace 140,000 barrels of oil a year.

Environmentalists argue that the long tunnel would ruin Lake Umbagog and the Rapid River.

The developers have pointed out that no construction work or changing of the ecology will be done during the three-year study period authorized by the federal permit.

Following tomorrow night's meeting in Errol, N.H., there will be a similar public meeting in Andover on Aug. 7—also a Thursday.

MOLLYOCKETT DAY REMINDER

All float entrants in the Mollyockett Day Parade should be in place and lined-up on Mechanic Street by 10 a.m. Judging will be done between 10 and 11 a.m. The parade will start at 11 a.m.

River Ski Resort.

In order to meet the demands of the skiway, and maintain sufficient service for the entire Bethel area, the voltage will be increased, he explained. Larger cables to carry the heavier voltage will be strung in the fall.

While crews are working on the poles, and while branches are likely to fall against power cables, the prospects are good for further power outages during the summer, Mr. Eliot predicted.

Head Start officials still looking for liability insurance

Head Start officials at Oxford County Community Services, in Norway, are still desperately searching for an insurance company or government office to cover the agency for liability. As reported by The Citizen earlier, the agency's liability insurance ran out in June.

Although there have been no claims against Oxford County's four Head Start centers, insurance agencies simply do not want to insure day care and preschool facilities.

Opinions

Posturing continues at Boise

Anyone who expected an early settlement of the strike at Boise is likely to be disappointed.

Strikes are like wars: they occur when diplomatic negotiations fail to resolve an issue on which two opposing sides have strong positions. And, like wars, it takes some time for each side to demonstrate its toughness and to get a taste of how tough the opposition is. After some battles, both sides generally sit down and try harder to negotiate a settlement to their argument.

At Boise, the time for sitting down again has apparently not yet been reached.

Talks could have continued for an extra 10 days after the present contract with the paperworkers expired June 30. The company agreed to the idea, proposed by the federal mediator, but the union membership overwhelmingly did not.

This week—again under prodding by the federal mediator—the union said it was ready to put some counter-offers on the table. But the company said it was finished negotiating and was going to hire a new workforce.

Does this mean all-out war, with the only avenue towards peace an unconditional surrender by the workers?

Not likely. While Boise officials want to get a little more control over their workforce—and rightfully so—they also rely on the expertise of the present workforce and the goodwill of the community in which they are located.

A fight to the finish is not the solution to the problem.

The fact is that no one who runs a business would agree to the sort of work rules prevailing at Boise. Under those rules, a worker is hired to do a certain job. If he reports to work and there is no work that day in his classification, he does nothing, and gets paid for doing nothing.

Workers should expect to work if they expect to get paid, and managers should be able to tell a worker to do any job that needs doing. Honest work is not demeaning. Taking money for doing nothing is.

With the present workforce working full-time, instead of sitting idly part of the time, fewer workers will be needed to run the mill. Management has assured the paperworkers that, despite this fact, no one will be laid off during the period of the new contract.

Management should go further and tell its workers that their jobs will be secure as long as they work full-time and wholeheartedly. The workforce can still be trimmed by not hiring replacements as people retire.

While the general idea of flexibility in job assignments is admirable, the same cannot be said of the lack of restrictions on arbitrary work assignments. Strikers complain that the proposed contract would allow managers to assign them to lower-paying jobs than their classifications would warrant. This is patently unfair. If you hire a man with certain skills, you pay him for those skills. If—on any given day—you need him to do a different job requiring lesser skills, you are still bound to pay him what you originally promised him.

Boise management was asked to defend this aspect of their contract proposal and declined to do so.

As the two sides continue to spar, it should become apparent to the striking workers that they will have to get used to the idea of giving eight hours of work for eight hours of pay. And it should become apparent to management that they need their experienced workers, and they need them to come back to work as proud people, not beaten people.

Lee Iacocca may or may not be a viable presidential candidate, but he has the right idea when he says a successful negotiation is one in which both sides feel they've won something. bfw

Notes from Adult & Community Education

The summer session of the SAD #44 Adult Learning Center began on Tuesday, July 8 at Telstar Regional High School. The Learning Center will be open each Tuesday evening from 6:30-9:30 for adults who wish to do GED (High School Equivalency) preparation or brushing, as well as for those who would like help with work in reading, writing or math skills. Merrill Bittner is the Learning Center instructor this summer, and will also be available to assist Learning Center students in planning for further education and job-seeking skills. Adult Education Director Cathy Newell will be in charge of the GED testing during the summer session. Adults who are interested in joining the Learning Center may drop in during the Tuesday evening hours, or phone the Adult Education office, 824-2780 during the day. Instruction at the Learning Center is individualized, so that students work on areas that need improvement and are able to progress at their own rate.

At the July 8 session of the Learning Center, Reginald Westleigh passed the GED exam, and will be awarded his equivalency diploma with a few weeks. Two other students are within one test of GED completion and spent the session doing additional work on writing skills. A new student joined the class and took the GED Practice Test to identify areas that needed further study. Director Cathy Newell commented that the SAD #44 Learning Center emphasized individual attention and is strongly committed to meeting the individual needs of each student. She added that day-time GED testing is available by appointment by calling the office, 824-2780.

Society launches 1986 endowment campaign

Howard W. Cole of Bethel, chairman of the 1986 Endowment Campaign Committee, has announced that the Bethel Historical Society will attempt to raise a record $8,500 for the society's endowment before Jan. 1, 1987. Mr. Cole, retired president of W.J. Wheeler of South Paris, has successfully directed the society's three previous annual campaigns which have raised over $20,000 for the endowment from several hundred businesses and individuals. A life member of the society, Mr. Cole has been active in fund raising for various organizations including Stephens Memorial Hospital of Norway.

Assisting Mr. Cole in this fund raising effort will be society members John B. Head of the Investment Committee, Barbara D. Brown of the Membership Committee, Alden T. Kennett, society president and E. Louise Lincoln, society bookkeeper and assistant treasurer. Already interest from this fund has begun to finance a small portion of the society's increasingly critical staffing needs. Contributions are being solicited from all society members and friends and will be accepted in any amount.

The Bethel Historical Society, a non-profit, tax-exempt corporation, is currently celebrating its 20th year (founded in 1966). With over 650 members it is also Oxford County's only full-time historical agency. It operates the Dr. Moses Mason House, which includes a period house museum devoted to understanding the life and times of the town's most distinguished citizen in the 19th century. Its collections contain materials of every description relating to western Maine and the White Mountains; its ac-

A note from the publisher

Roger Hanscom came into the office the other day and suggested that we alert our readers to be on the lookout for summer, inviting anyone and everyone to write or call in if and when they see any sign of the season.

Being new in Maine, I wouldn't hazard a guess, but my partner, John Brown, said he thinks it arrived last Monday. By Thursday it was gone. But, hey, it was fun while it lasted.

What worries me is that the days are getting noticeably shorter already. And I still haven't gotten into the water for a swim. Well, there's always next year. Speaking of water, my wife Mary and I were canoeing on the Androscoggin last week. Rented a canoe from Esther Crockett's Red Top Truck Stop and left it on the bank of the river in Rumford Center, where it was picked up by the operator at the general store there—who actually owns the canoe.

We covered 16 or so miles in four hours with a good current. I'm happy to report that the river smelled a lot sweeter than when we canoed it a couple of years ago.

There were lots of cormorants and kingfishers and swallows along the river. Another good sign.

In fact, so appealing was the river, it seemed a wonder that it hasn't been struck by the same sort of development as on the ponds.

I asked Mary Gillies about it, and she explained that much of the river frontage is prone to flooding, and much is in large family holdings. Nevertheless, she says river frontage is a good investment, since it will likely become more and more popular as the river continues to improve in quality.

If one is sensitive, death is an occasion for thankfulness as well as for remorse, because it brings us face to face with our own mortality.

An excellent chronicler of death, dying and the human condition is Robert Mason, a helicopter pilot in America's Southwest Asia war.

His book, "Chickenhawk," was widely acclaimed when it was published in 1983. Although he and his wife and family live in north Florida, the Masons summer at Thompson Lake.

Robert Mason has agreed to make time out from vacationing to spend a morning at the Downtown Bookshop, on Main Street, Norway, to meet with readers, veterans, the idly curious, and discuss THE WAR, the writer's craft, the differences between north Florida and southern Maine, etc.

I don't know the man, but like me—he attended the University of Florida, and like me—he served in southeast Asia, and he really has something to say in his book. Therefore, I suggest you might want to go meet him and talk with him.

He'll be at the Downtown Bookshop from 10 a.m. on, on July 26—that's the Saturday after Mollycodd Day.

You might want to call before going, just to make sure the schedule hasn't changed.

Tri-Town Rescue

Tri-Town Rescue had a very successful yard sale this past weekend, raising $686 on Saturday alone. The generous donations for the sale contributed to its success.

The personnel are getting in shape for a nurses' bed race on Mollycodd Day (Saturday, July 19) in Bethel at 1 p.m. at the corner of the Bethel Common and Broad Street. The Bethel Common has been expanded to include more stations. The Health Center has challenged Bethel Rescue and Tri-Town Rescue. Both Stoneham and REMS have been invited.

The auxiliary is planning a chicken barbecue booster club supper Saturday night at the Locke Mills American Legion Hall.

Training this month is to the last Wednesday, July 30, not the fourth (July 23). The topic is back and neck injuries with Chris Hefley as the instructor.

Activities includes monthly meetings, school programs, heritage festivals, publications, films, lectures and a quarterly, The Bethel Courier, which is sent to all interested in donating.

Anyone interested in making a contribution or requesting further information should call the society office at 824-2908 or write P.O. Box 12, Bethel Maine 04217.

FORMER U.S. SENATOR MARGARET CHASE SMITH was the guest of honor Saturday at the opening of the hand-crank telephone museum, on Rumford Avenue, in Bryant Pond. Sen. Smith, a former telephone operator herself, in Skowhegan, reminisced about the old crank systems. The museum was the brainchild of Earl Hildreth, of the Maine chapter of the Independent Telephone Pioneers of America. The building to house the museum was done with volunteer labor and with the cooperation of the Oxford County Telephone Co. A couple of hundred people attended the dedication ceremonies.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I would like to publicly express my sincere thanks to all who helped with the Blood Drive last week! The drive would never have succeeded without the help of the 25 who volunteered their time and efforts. Seventy-six people came to donate which means that 150 or more will benefit from this kindness. I'd like to mention all your names, but you know who you are. Thank you!

I would also like to publicly commend Dee Dee Kellogg for all the work she has put into the Bethel Blood Drive over the years. She has coordinated two drives every year for six years, until this one. I don't know how she's done it. My hat's off to you, Dee Dee!!

To the Editor:

Boy Scouts will be having a concession stand at the Northern Oxford County Little League playoffs, hosted by Bethel this year. We (Boy Scouts) had about $45-$50 worth of 2x4s off to one side at the upper ball field at CPS, that we were going to use for our stand. Someone decided that they wanted them more because all of the lumber disappeared. Now what??

From the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce

The board of directors of the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce met Tuesday at 7:30 a.m. at Casco Bank.

Any member wishing to hear their advertisements in the Maine Guide to Winter and New England Ski Guide should do so as soon as possible because deadlines are July 23 for Maine Guide to Winter and Aug. 1 for New England Ski Guide.

If you have had a representative from Four Seasons magazine visit you about taking out space in that publication, it would be a good idea to get in touch with Robin Zinchuk of Bill Barter before doing so. The chamber can offer co-ops ads at a discounted rate.

This Saturday, July 19, is Mollycodd Day. With the prepared schedule of events, it looks like everyone will have a very exciting day. Anyone who has some free time and a desire to help the chamber should come to the chamber's concession booth, at the flagpole end of the common. The chamber will be serving lobster rolls and root beer.

Also, Edleen Winslow, at Charlie's Place, needs help in preparing the chamber's float. She will be working on it every evening in the garage at Charlie's Place. If you can spare the time and effort, stop by.

September is fast approaching and the chamber is making plans for the Eastern States Exposition (the Big E) in Springfield, Mass. Volunteers are needed to help at the Bethel area booth. Hotel expenses will be paid by the chamber from proceeds on items sold at the booth. Call Robin Zinchuk or Bill Riley if you are interested in helping with this worthwhile promotional project.

The directors authorized the Sign Committee to have the information sign at the Rte. 2 Riverside Rest Area repaired. All of the chamber's signs will eventually be refurbished. Suggestions as to locations for these signs would be appreciated. Contact anyone on the sign committee: Roxanne Carson, Joan Scaro, Amy Farrar or MaryBeth Boyerlein.

The next meeting will be July 29, 7:30 a.m., at the Casco Bank. All are welcome.

in August and will be living in the Portland area.

The directors accepted the five year school improvement plan as prepared by the SAD #44 School Improvement Team in accordance with Title 20-A, Chapter 125, of the Maine Revised Statutes. According to its mission statement the School Improvement Team "...will coordinate planning for change and improvement in the District by establishing better communications between the Board, all standing committees, administration, staff and communities. We will solicit input and consider various methods of promoting improved educational opportunities and experiences for the students we serve. By establishing short and long-term goals, developing strategies to meet these goals, and periodically assessing both, we will strive to bring real improvement to SAD #44 schools."

For the 1986-87 school year grade level/classroom location for the Bethel elementary schools is to be as follows: at Ethel Bisbee School—three divisions each of grade one and two—the portable classroom building will be utilized for resource room, chapter one, library, and meetings (speech, creative and talented, guidance); at Crescent Park School—kindergarten, and three divisions each of grades three, four and five—the portable classroom is to be used for chapter one, library and resource room.

The following personnel were approved for the 1986-87 school year: Marie P. Hickey of Coopers Mills, special education resource room teacher at Ethel Bisbee School; Brenda B. Wight of Bethel, grade 3 teacher at Crescent Park School; Debra Germain of Andover, grade 3 teacher at Crescent Park School; Laura J. Shea of Portland, grade 6 teacher at Woodstock Elementary School. Cindy Walker was approved as a bus driver/maintenance person.

Authorization was granted to transfer $23,419 between accounts in the fiscal year 1986 budget, to cover projected overdrafts. The funds were applied to accounts as follows: student service, $9,250; general administration, $3,649; copy center, $2,506; debt service, $185; secondary—reg., $5,550; hot lunch, $28; EBS—portable, $2,271.

The board approved the following assessments to SAD #44's member-towns for fiscal year 1987: Andover, $480,304; Bethel, $577,711; Greenwood, $249,540; Newry, $168,655; and Woodstock, $296,825.

The board granted authorization to re-advertise the position of part-time instructional aide to work with kindergarten students in the Bethel schools. Authorization was also granted to post the following positions: special education teacher and special education aide to work in a new special education classroom at the Woodstock Elementary School for the 1986-87 school year; also a part-time special education secretary.

The following extra-curricular personnel were approved for the 1986-87 school year: H.S. head soccer, Robert Remington; H.S. asst. soccer, Charles Raymond; H.S. head field hockey, Kelly Scott; H.S. cross country, John Applin; M.S. head field hockey, Sally Hannon; M.S. asst. field hockey, Elaine Hutchins; H.S. head boys' basketball, William Caddigan; H.S. asst. girls' basketball, Kelly Scott; head ski coach, Robert Remington; M.S. head girls' basketball, pay scale, he will be given a lower salary. Boise spokesman John Shorb was asked about this criticism of the flexibility provision and declined to comment on whether a worker would receive less pay after being assigned a job below his classification.

He did say, however, "There are restrictions (in the contract) on re-assignment of folks in their expertise areas."

Union president Barker indicated that his negotiating team would propose further restrictions on the flexibility provision.

Other aspects of the so-called final offer include changing double-time pay on Sundays to time-and-a-half, reducing vacation pay to 40 hours a week instead of 48 hours a week, and paying workers a $1,000 bonus for accepting the contract. Workers have termed the bonus offer a bribe.

The company plans to run help-wanted ads later this week and plans to accept applications beginning Friday at the Oxford County Fairgrounds.

Maine Central Railroad, in its dispute with striking Railroad Maintenance Way Employees, recently hired new workers to replace strikers but then was forced by the federal government to re-hire the strikers during a cooling-off period. When the railroad refused to re-hire all the strikers, a federal judge ordered them to do so.

Boise spokesman Sam Donaldson said company management is aware of the troubles Maine Central ran into, but noted that railroads are governed by different labor rules than other companies. "That's apples and oranges," he contended.

He emphasized, "We're not firing anyone." As for the workers who refuse to come back to work because their union is on strike: "That's their choice," he said.

In addition to the labor problem with the paperworkers, the company, as Daniel Hannon; H.S. boys' track, Timothy Kersey; H.S. girls' track, Judith Kersey; M.S. softball, Daniel Hannon; M.S. track, Kelly Scott; H.S. head girls' basketball, James Lunney; H.S. head softball, James Lunney; H.S. asst. softball, Timothy Kavanagh; M.S. alpine ski coach, Timothy Kavanagh; H.S. asst. boys' basketball, Steven Keane; H.S. head baseball, Levi Brown; H.S. student council, Michael Deleahanty; H.S. National Honor Society, Daniel Hart; Telstar auditorium manager, Harry Davis; H.S. drama coach, Harry Davis; H.S. yearbook, Sharon Higgins.

The board approved a change in the three year (July 1, 1986-June 30, 1989) tuition agreement between SAD #44 and the town of Upton. The approved change removes SAD #44's responsibility for the transportation of Upton pupils. It was felt that due to the number of Upton students involved, substantial savings could be realized by the town assuming the responsibility for student transportation.

Board members not present Monday evening were: John Foster, Andover; Dick Crandall, Bethel; Debra Poland and Sheryl Wilbur, Woodstock.

The next regularly scheduled meeting of the SAD #44 directors will be Monday, Aug. 11, 7:30 p.m., in the library at Telstar Regional High School.

Local boys shoot for olympics in Calgary

Jon Owen and Jody Shimamura, both members of the U.S. National Luge "B" Team and residents of Bethel, have been spending the summer training and working to raise money so they may spend time training this fall on the luge course in Calgary, Canada, site of the 1988 Winter Olympics. To help earn their way, they will be holding a raffle on Mollycodd Day (see them at their booth on the Common). Grand prize will be a season's ski pass donated by the Sunday River Ski Resort; other prizes will also be awarded. Tickets will be $1.

Your assistance is requested to enable these two local youths realize their quest for the Olympics.

reported in last week's Citizen, has also begun negotiations on a new contract with the electricians' union. The present contract expires the end of July. The electricians have been crossing the paperworkers' picket lines to go into the plant.

The company has brought in workers from other mills, as well as a catering service from Texas and armed guards from Pennsylvania.

The paperworkers have brought in fellow unionists from the Boise plant in Vermont and are looking to bring in a professional media relations person.

Picketers are standing in front of 11 gates at the plant around the clock. One gate is being left unattended to allow contractors to come and go freely. And the railroad's line into the plant is not being picketed, at the request of the Brotherhood of Maintenance Way Employees, so the Maine Central trains can go in and out of the mill.

Company officials say the plant is running at half-capacity, or about 800 tons daily—a claim disputed by union officials, who say the two papermaking machines in use cannot produce that much paper.

The union is planning a march tomorrow morning (Thursday). Billed as a "Mothers' March," the event is designed to show support for the union's position. It will step off from the American Legion parking lot sometime after 9:30 a.m.

1986 trapping seasons set

Maine's 1986 furbearer trapping and hunting seasons have been announced by Fish and Wildlife Commissioner Glenn H. Manuel.

Thw commissioner said the season dates remain unchanged from 1985. Oct. 28 will be the statewide opening date for the trapping season on bobcat, coyote, fisher, fox, raccoon, otter, skunk, weasel, marten, mink, and muskrat.

The trapping season will close Dec. 4 in the Southern Zone, south of the Canadian Pacific Railroad mainline track, and on Dec. 15 north of that line.

In addition to the regular muskrat season, muskrats may be trapped during the beaver trapping season in areas which are open to beaver trapping.

No traps are to be set above ground or snow level in December.

Mr. Manuel also announced the following statewide furbearer hunting seasons: raccoon, Oct. 28-Dec. 15; fox, Oct. 28-Dec. 15; bobcat, Dec. 1-Feb. 28; skunk, Oct. 20-Dec. 15.

CARSON HELICOPTERS INC., of Pekaskie, Pa., flew the final tower into place last week for the new South Ridge triple chairlift at Sunday River Ski Resort. The helicopter will next be used to carry snowmaking pipe up to the new Spruce Peak area, as well as concrete for new lift construction and bales of hay to cover the new trails.

HEAD START OFFICIALS

"It doesn't look real encouraging right now," said Debbie Damon, the official who oversees the four local centers—in Oxford, Norway, Rumford and West Bethel. Only two of the centers—Rumford and West Bethel—are operational during the summer, offering day care.

Ms. Damon is confident that liability insurance will be found before the September opening of the Head Start centers, but, as for now, "We're still in a crisis."

She had hoped to be able to get insurance through the state insurance commission's pool, after companies that had been insuring the centers declined to renew the policies.

The problem began a year ago. Until then, Head Start had been paying $1,200 annually to cover all four centers. Then the insurance company, The Hartford Group, terminated the policy.

A new policy was obtained from Penn-American Insurance, costing $4,600 annually. Penn-American declined to renew it after June 30, however.

The state commission had earlier said it would be able to find coverage, at a cost of $6,500 a year—for just 125 children.

Head Start directors at the state level are in the midst of a survey, trying to find insurance companies willing to sell liability insurance to the pre-school centers. "We're still scouting around," Ms. Damon said.

But she is very aware that the September start-up date is quickly approaching. "We've got to have something by then," she said.

Art group holds exhibit

The Western Maine Art Group will open their 26th Annual Members Show, Tuesday, July 29, at the Lajos Matolcsy Art Center, 265 Main St., Norway.

This dedicated, non-profit group of artists and friends of art own and operate the center, which presents four exhibits from late June until Labor Day, giving the public the opportunity of viewing art works in various forms.

Included in this exhibit of paintings will be the work of well-known local artists Lee Bean, Eleanor Viles, Ann Beyer, Diane Hooper, Marion Stewart, Doris Schoenmiller, of Casco; Ruth Friberg, Oxford; Lucille Geiser, Naples; Blythe Goss, Gisella Gawronski, Portland; Jeanette O'Connell, Lewiston; Helen Morton, Bethel; Judith McLaughlin, West Paris; Joyce Hathaway, South Woodstock; and many others.

An opening reception will be held at the art center Tuesday evening, July 29, from 6 to 8 p.m. The public is invited. This exhibit will continue until Aug. 16. The art center is open daily Tuesday through Saturday, from 10:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Andover East

By LAURA HUTCHINS

Preparations, under the direction of Jane Rich, are well underway for this year's Andover Old Home Days, to be held on Saturday, Aug. 2. The theme is "Andover—A Home For 4 Seasons."

The parade, which kicks off the day's activities at 10 a.m., will feature antique and custom cars, with Merton Perkins and Leon Simmons in charge; horse and pony division under the direction of the newly formed Ellis River Riding Club (contact Debbie Cayer Bean), with floats and other miscellaneous entries under the direction of Fred Emerson.

There will be the usual firemen's muster, chicken barbecue at the fire station at noon, woodsmen's contest, cow chip flip, penny carnival for children, flower show sponsored by the historical society, quilt show by the Covered Bridge Quilters, plus arts and crafts demonstrations in the town hall, featuring photography, bird carving and oil paintings. A flea market, a pie baking contest with pies on sale, and an auction, sponsored by the First Congregational Church will also occupy the Common. The Christian Education Building will be the scene of the Ladies Aid Society Craft and Food Sale with coffee and doughnuts on sale in the morning, and sandwiches, hot coffee and cold beverages on sale at noon. A beautiful doll house will be on display, with tickets on sale. Proceeds will go for a large refrigerator for the CEB kitchen.

Ah, the joys of summer! The nice warm weather has been so welcome after all the chilly, windy weather (back to that again today, Friday).

Due to the holiday, other commitments and a new job, I ran out of time so didn't get my column in last week. I'll try to catch up this week.

A special thank you to Arvilla Robinson, who took the time to send a copy of Turner's calendar of events for their bicentennial. Sounded like fun and I'm sorry we were unable to get to it. Thanks for thinking of us.

On Sunday, June 29, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Hutchins enjoyed a trip up over the "height-of-the-land," through Oquossoc and Wilson's Mills to Errol, N.H., where they had supper at a restaurant and then home by way of Upton and East B Hill. Bernard drowned a few worms in an attempt to catch some fish—(no luck). When we reached the "height-of-the-land" the wind was blowing hard and it was chilly. We began picking wild strawberries at the roadside and gathered better than a quart of large yummy berries. We were surprised by a young bull moose who decided to trot down the road ahead of us for a stretch. A few miles further down the road a cow moose and her calf were feeding in a mucky ditch beside the road. A pick-up truck was stopped there prior to our arrival. When I stopped, Mother Moose looked at first one vehicle, then the other, then nudged her calf and they retreated in the thicket where they couldn't be seen. They were all so shiny and looked real healthy. We ran into (and out of) a thundershower—hailstorm that left both sides of the road white with hailstones and littered with beaten tree leaves, seeds and small branches. Over the distance, the wind had blown down three whole trees. It was reported hail fell in Andover at Charlie Jodrey's that afternoon also.

On Tuesday, July 1, I visited my daughter, Lorene Cobb, and family in Bryant Pond. Mandy and Calla returned home with me and visited until I took them home on July 3, after supper.

Laura Plawlock, Joshua and Sara, of Bethel, visited Laura's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Jones of East Andover, over the long holiday weekend. Grampa Jones took Joshua fishing at Roxbury Pond where Josh caught a nice perch and returned home with stories of the two that got away. Are they going back? You bet!

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Jones had supper guests in on Sunday, July 6, to help celebrate the 15th anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Jones. Attending were: Sidney Jones III, Andover; Albert and Evelyn Bell, East Andover; Laura, Joshua and Sara Plawlock, Bethel; Mr. and Mrs. Roger Jones, daughters Shannon and Calley Ann and friends, Michelle and Jenny, all of Jenny.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Merrill of Andover, are receiving congratulations on the birth of a hefty, 9 lb., 6 oz., baby boy born July 2. He has been named Robert Lawrence II. Proud grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Otis Morton, Andover, and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Merrill, South Paris.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Hutchins enjoyed the July 4 celebration and "cook-in" (by the Franklin fireplace) at friend Martha's Flint's camp on Kyes Pond in Sweden. They also visited Mr. and Mrs. Greg Adams and family in Sweden while in the area.

Mrs. Laura Dolloff, South Andover, returned home on Friday, July 4, after visiting her son, James, in Green Harbor, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Reed, Enfield, Conn., have been at their camp on the South Arm Road and visiting relatives in town, including her father, Howard Glover, of East Andover, who was a patient at Rumford Community Hospital for a few days. He returned home Monday, July 7.

Mrs. Beatrice Dresser accompanied her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Reed, and her daughter, Mrs. Barbara Flaherty, on a trip to Berlin, N.H., on Sunday, July 6. While there they enjoyed a nice dinner at one of the restaurants. This was a late Mother's Day and birthday celebration for Bea since she was hospitalized on those dates.

George Ladd, East Andover, remains a patient at Maine Medical Center, at this writing.

Eugene Merrill, South Andover, is a patient at St. Mary's Hospital in Lewiston undergoing tests, following a heart attack.

SALESCLERK NANCY WIGHT stands in front of the new addition to The Shop, on Main Street, Bethel. The furniture, lamps, and handicrafts store is now known as Maine Line Products, which previously had been the name used for catalog sales only. The new enclosed porch allows for additional interior display space, as well as needed window display areas.

Sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Michaud, Jr., of East Andover and the rest of Judy's family on the death of their father, Maurice Thibodeau on July 11.

Six members of the Ladies Aid Society met at the CEB and enjoyed the mystery ride and picnic on July 8. Final destination was Screw Auger Falls where hot dogs were cooked, southern fried chicken and other goodies were enjoyed.

At the meeting Anne Fox was voted in as our "Sunshine Lady" to send out cards for all occasions, etc. Attending were Dot Campbell, Anne Fox, Rev. E. Marriotte Churchill, Evelyn Bell, Dolly Jones and Laura Hutchins.

The East Andover Community Club members met and enjoyed supper, a meeting and social time at the summer cottage of Mrs. Violet Swain at Roxbury Pond on July 8.

We have been "dug up" this week. First the pipe from the well to the house (which was plugged), then the septic system. Bernard had finished covering the septic system today.

We have enjoyed a few brief glimpses of a Baltimore oriole this week, apparently being chased by a blue jay. It only stayed a few minutes each time. The honeysuckle berries and chokecherries are getting ripe, which seem to be an invitation to Mr. and Mrs. Cedar Waxwing.

Independence Day and cloudy here. The sun was shining some when we first got up but didn't last too long. Had thought I'd do a washing but changed my mind and sat and watched TV instead. The pictures from New York with all the boats in the harbor were spectacular. I'm afraid it wouldn't have been so pretty on our old black and white TV, but thanks to the Christmas gift from my daughter and husband, Russell and I really enjoyed the show. Only thing I was sorry for was that they didn't show all the tall ships so we could see them. Oh well, can't have everything and we don't. Just have to be grateful for what we have.

It has been a busy week around here as I have had my granddaughters until yesterday afternoon when their mother came to get them. She had a meeting in Orono for education that she had to attend so I have had the girls. Just wish my legs were in better shape for me to keep up with them as I love to have them with me if I feel good. One doesn't realize what it can be like to not be able to get around well until it happens. Not a nice experience I can tell you. Guess I am lucky I can go as well as I can but we always wish for more.

Russell has been working in the garden whenever he can and went strawberrying one day with Grace and Lawrence and their daughter, Hilda. We had eaten what fresh berries he and Peggy picked when they went to Poland, so he thought we should have a few more. They have sure tasted good.

I had the girls outside when I could as they love to go out but couldn't go as much as Courtney would have liked. She would be outside all the time if she could. Kariann likes to go out and swing, also. It was a chore to keep them both swinging at the same time but did the best I could with the swings side by side.

Lawrence has been waiting for the cutter bar for his machine to come to cut grass and it finally came after a long wait and many phone calls. However, it doesn't work as it should. Russell says the belt isn't as long as it should be to work well so Lawrence will try something I am sure until he gets it to work. Peggy headed for Massachusetts on Monday to be with a lady there for awhile. She doesn't expect to be home for a couple of weeks, anyway.

Hilda Taylor went to Massachusetts for a few days to visit some friends and see a lady who wanted to visit with her. She left on Thursday.

Russell had been invited to go to West Paris Grange on Thursday night but drove me to a chiropractor instead as I needed an adjustment. Had been to my regular doctor on Wednesday morning but lifting the smallest granddaughter didn't help my back in good shape. She is such a big girl for her age. We have enjoyed the birds this summer. Russell had sunflower seeds left over from last winter and my foster daughter, Helen Strout, had given him some, so he has kept the feeders full. We have lots of purple finches and some gold finches. They are beautiful and more fun to watch than a circus, at times. There was only the one pair of gold finches to start, but now there are three females and two males so wonder if the first pair's little ones are coming to the feeder with their parents. The females look a little smaller and not as yellow as the first mother we saw. Chickadees are still coming at times and the other day when Russell went to fill the feeder, one of the chickadees landed on the feeder, took a seed as it sat on the steps, and flew off, not minding Russell being right there at all. Shows how friendly they are. We also have a pair of mourning doves who seem to be here a lot to feed and Russell has put out a little cracked corn for them but they have to try the feeder once in awhile and we open the back door and they are gone.

The sun has come out for a little and wish it would decide to stay, but the forecast doesn't say it will. They are sometimes wrong and I'll hope this is one of the times.

Russell is taking advantage of it and is outside putting around. We have had some of the kind of peas that you eat pod and all, but aren't as fond of them as the others. Probably don't cook them right and they would taste good cooked in a wok but as I don't have one, I do the best I can. The garden looks better than it did and hope it continues to. I'd like to see the freezer full come fall as they are so tight with food stamps that one would starve on what they give. I was worried that the peas out front wouldn't produce any peas for us as they weren't growing good but they are doing better and have many pods coming on them as well as a lot of blossoms. Beets are looking good and will be ready for greens soon. It takes a lot of work to have a good garden, but the vegetables taste so much better than those cans that one buys in the store.

I should have written about the wedding of Cindy Waisanen and Peter Ernsten on Saturday, June 28. I hope I spelled his last name right. The wedding took place at the Bell Hill Church in Oisfield with a reception following at the Naples Legion Hall. It was a beautiful wedding with many attending. The bride is one of Lawrence and Grace's granddaughters and was the picture of happiness. We wish them the best in their married life.

By OLIVE DAVIS

Summer arrived in all its glory a few days late according to the calendar. July 8 proved a hot day in our area. The thermometers at my house registered 90 degrees. It's the first time they have been the same this year. Usually they are 20 degrees apart. One is out back and the other one by the front door. Tuesday is fast becoming the same kind of day as I am writing this.

Lloyd Merrifield is mowing the Davis farm this week.

Thursday afternoon Esther Davis took me to Lewiston to the doctor for treatment on my eye. Saturday afternoon we were over to Turner's anniversary. They really put on a big show for two days. Monday noon I took dinner with Esther. That's all our doings this week.

Some are enjoying the beach this week. The weather sure calls them all.

Mrs. Leon Poland Jr. has gone to Florida to visit her daughter Lellani.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Poland Sr. have been putting in 220 cable for the stove and a refrigerator in the community building. They also have repaired the toilets out back. They left them unlocked. The first thing someone took the comfort of them and also walked off with the two rolls of toilet paper which were placed there for their convenience. That's what I call going some—stealing toilet paper. How low can people get?

Buster has a sale at the community building the last part of the week now. They would love to have anyone drop in and see their wares.

Ernest Bradbury, who has been in Germany many teaching, has returned to the United States. He called on Raymond Micron and family Saturday. They are close friends, he having taught some time with Raymond before he departed for Germany.

I had never been in the Bell Hill Church or the Naples Grange Hall, but both were nice, especially the old church that I have heard of so many times. It was nice to be able to go into an old style church with closed-in pews. We left the reception a little early as Peggy and Russell were planning to attend the dance in Locke Mills that night. I stayed home in the evening and watched TV. They both said they enjoyed the dance and I am glad they did. They always meet many friends and that makes it more of a pleasure.

B.E.A.R.S.

Bethel Emergency Ambulance and Rescue Service

The regular meeting of the B.E.A.R.S. will be on Sunday night, July 20, at 6:30 p.m., at the ambulance building.

All members, and anyone else who would like to volunteer, would spend some time on Mollycokett Day on the Common helping out. The B.E.A.R.S. will be back to defend their championship in the nurses' bed race.

Anyone interested in taking an EMT course this fall should get in contact with Joanne Lee, Tri-County EMS Coordinator, 300 Main St., Lewiston, or call 784-0111.

Safety Tip

There are many people out on the streets and roads with their bicycles. Some of them do not know the rules of the road, so one must be very careful when coming up on a bicyclist. Many ride on the wrong side of the road, fail to stop at stop signs, and do not look before coming out into the road.

Notes from the Woodstock Historical Society

Here is a description by Charles Dickens of one 19th century lady as seen by another—

"She was a good, good woman! She went to church three times every Sunday, and to morning prayers on Wednesdays and Fridays, and to lectures whenever there were lectures; and never missed. She was handsome; and if she had ever smiled, would have been... like an angel; but she never smiled. She was always grave and strict. She was so very good herself, I thought, that the badness of other people made her frown all her life... I felt so poor, so trifling, and so far off, that I never could be unrestrained with her—no, could never even love her as I wished."

Much thanks to those who have watched the museum so far—Annie Crockett, the Noyes family, Eva B. Twitchell, and Kay Billings, and the Billings family. The society is planning a food sale at Littlefield Beach soon.

By COLISTA MORGAN

This is Sunday morning July 6. Silences surround our home. This is the time to be aware of gentle sounds; the turning of a windmill outside, the ticking of a clock, the fluttering of leaves, a creaking bough, while out among the weeds is a boat with a silent fisherman doing what he likes, roughing it, as Mother Nature meant it to be. He just sits there idly, as the waves crawl by gently rocking, rocking. He enjoys the crisp, balmy freshness of the morning. The multiplicity of green colors are everywhere. The rains have left the earth succulent. The slugs are especially happy. The breeze softly flows through my garden carrying the fragrance of roses. My foxgloves, blooming tall, are visited by buzzing bees, while a butterfly alights to sip the nectar of the mockorange bush. What a way to start a summer day!

As the day progressed I worked among my flowers pulling weeds or working on my lawn. I noted the softness of clover and recalled the poem by that name written by James Whitcomb Riley. His statue stood in our schoolroom in my childhood days. I stopped to observe a monarch butterfly sipping sweetness from a clover blossom. No butterfly is more familiar than this one. Its flight is slow and sailing. Thus through the day I captured the essence of summer and although I could not go far I enjoyed my summer view.

Most families were busy and enjoying the holiday weekend. All cottages on our road had visitors.

Our callers were Ann Holt, Robert Holt and family, Windoor, Milton and Eleanor Imman, Fred and Rena Curtis, and a brief call from Frank Curtis, local; Carl and Lettie Brooks, West Paris, Me.

Arenzo, Pennsylvania, is parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pat

Mr. and Mrs. Terry Spire and two children, New Hampshire; Ardell and Betty Hayes, Auburn; Mr. and Mrs. Duane Hayes and family, West Paris; Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hayes, Gray; Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Hayes, local, and two friends from New York, Tim Allen and Mark Travers; Lenora Waterhouse and Verna Libby, Falmouth. Doris reports a very busy, enjoyable time.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Curtis enjoyed a cookout on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Curtis.

The DiArenzo family enjoyed a day at the beach where they met other friends for the day.

Evelyn Tamminen, Yarmouth, was a recent caller at Mr. and Mrs. Aarne Jarvenpaa's and Mr. and Mrs. Nestor Tamminen's.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vatcher rode over the Kancamagus highway July 3. There was heavy traffic everywhere. In North Conway they were bumper to bumper for one hour. It rained heavy all afternoon. They counted many, many condominiums on the trip.

North East Lovell

By PAULINE SMITH

The Bertwells were here over the weekend at Cushman Pond. There were 22 in the party and they enjoyed fireworks the night of July 4.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Morris, their sons and families, were at Cushman Pond for the July 4 weekend.

Jim Rowe and family were also at their camp for the holiday.

The food sale at the United Church of Christ Saturday did very well.

Leroy and Pauline Smith took in the pancake breakfast at North Lovell Grange Hall Friday.

Around 35 met at the Rowe farm, Lovell, for a reunion July 4. It had been 20 years since they had met before. I am sure a nice time was had. Chester Rowe was the oldest person there and his great grandchild, whose name I cannot remember, was the youngest.

A new family has moved into Bob Williams' house. Bob Williams and family are now in Portland.

A large crowd was out to services at the United Church Sunday.

Lawrence Allen, his wife, daughter and granddaughter, visited Hazel Allen in honor of Hazel's birthday. Roswell Allen, another son from Norway, brought a birthday cake and both boys and sons gave Hazel a birthday gift of a reclining chair. Flora Allen was also invited to the dinner.

NOTICE
There will be no service at the West Bethel Union Church on Sunday, July 27. There will be a joint service at the Albany Church, Sunday, July 27, at 9:15 a.m. A picnic will follow at 11 a.m.

Circus delights crowds

The Old Tyme American Circus delighted the appreciative crowds that attended their performances at Telstar Regional High School on June 29 and 30, with a full program of exciting, skillful and entertaining acts.

A short circus parade preceded the Sunday, June 29, show featuring elephants, clowns, acrobats, and two Bethel fire trucks loaded with children dressed in colorful clown costumes.

The sudden appearance of a violent wind and rain storm Sunday afternoon provided an anxious moment and the circus management wisely cleared the tent as a precautionary measure. However, following a delay, during which time weather conditions improved, the show continued to its conclusion.

Winners of the children's clown contest, presented by the Bethel IGA Store included grand prize, Jaime Grover; girl clown, Jennifer Bowie; boy clown, Justin Gilbert.

Circus Committee chairman Paula Berry, Executive Director Robin Zinchuk, and the entire membership of the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce expresses thanks and appreciation to the many businesses, organizations, and area residents whose help and support made this community event an outstanding success.

The NTL Institute summer conferences are continuing into their fourth week with a group of six new programs: A basic Human Interaction Laboratory, Dealing with Difficult People at Work, Facilitating and Managing Complex System Change, Managing Conflict: Interpersonal and Organizational, Integrating Training and Consultation, and Centering for Personal and Professional Development.

The first four of these are one-week programs, while the last two will continue into next week.

Sunrise Seminars were presented on Tuesday and Wednesday by Kathie Danemiller and Ronald Lippitt. The presenters and topics for the remainder of the week will be:

- Thursday, July 17: Jane Moosbrucker on "The Leadership Dilemma in Developing Small Groups, or Toto—What to Do? What to Do?"
- Friday, July 18: Luis Morales-Saenz on "To Help or Not?"
- Saturday, July 19: Charles Seashore on "Moving On."

These 45-minute staff presentations take place most weekday mornings in the Maine Room of the NTL conference building at 7:30 a.m. and are open to interested persons in the Bethel area.

In addition to the already full schedule of workshops and Sunrise Seminars, participants have the option of attending special interest groups that meet at 4:30 p.m. several afternoons.

This week the meetings are to be held in the Bingham House and will cover these topics:

- Wednesday: People of Color;
- Thursday: What's Going On with Women Here and Abroad?
- Friday: The Changing Role of Men and Women in Organizations.

As in the case of the Sunrise Seminars, interested area residents are also invited to attend these meetings. Call the NTL office, at 824-2151, for information on all of these activities.

Right-of-way widened on skiway access road

Newly selected met with Sunday River Ski Resort officials yesterday morning (Tuesday) for a first-hand look at the right-of-way of the skiway access road above the intersection with the Sunday River Road.

It was agreed by all concerned to widen the right-of-way to 60 feet. Approval for the widening was granted by the abutting landowners Steve Wight and Don Bennett. Mr. Bennett indicated he may request the town to discontinue the road leading into his home (across from the Sunday River Ski Touring Center), and selectmen indicated they would be in favor of such a move.

The state Department of Transportation notified Newry officials this week that funding of $90,000 has been approved for the repair and re-location of a portion of the skiway access road. The town will put in $45,000 towards the project, and the skiway will put in another $45,000 or more. The work will be done by the skiway, with the rebuilding expected to begin within a couple of weeks.

DICK VIOLETTE, CHAIRMAN OF THE MERRIMACK COUNTY TELEPHONE CO., in Contoocook, N.H., was in Bryant Pond Saturday, demonstrating old telephone equipment to the hundreds of visitors at the Grange Hall. The exhibit was held in conjunction with the opening of the crank telephone museum. The Woodstock Historical Society also showed off its old switchboard and had showings of a film on the old Bryant Pond system, believed to have been the last operational system in the country when it closed a few years ago.

Rotary Club notes

The Bethel Rotary Club held its regular weekly luncheon meeting at the Sudbury Inn on Tuesday, July 15.

Visiting Rotarians and guests joining with the group this week were Bill Lowthers, Bounton, N.J.; Chas. Feld, Marco Island, Fla.; El Stausebach, Wilmington, Del.; Joe Reidy, Tyngsboro, Mass.; Harry Laughy, Tilton/Northfield, Del.; Paul Ganson, Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

The attendance contest is winding down and as in all contests there are winners and losers. In this case it doesn't look good for team #2. Remember next week's regular Rotary meeting will be held at the Bethel Inn Beach House on Songo Pond at 5 p.m. The contest losers will be picking up the tab. For you losers, the only consolation for you might be to identify the team members that let you down and "hold them under" for about three minutes.

A new attendance contest has been mentioned which would incorporate some of the rules of Ed Quinn's winter club—in other words a small cash donation assessed on those not making up meetings. Nothing firmed up on this yet, so don't get excited.

The final Mollycodd Day planning was discussed at the meeting. Every available Rotarian will be busy from Friday through Sunday getting the job done.

The program chairman, Roy Silver, introduced his guest speaker, Dan Hart, guidance counselor at Telstar Regional High School. Dan talked about his job and experiences as a student and guidance counselor. He also talked his background from grammar school days through college and the transition to what he presently is involved with. Dan distributed cards to Rotary members to gain the definition of what a guidance counselor is. The results were reviewed by Dan. The program was well presented and held the interest of everyone present.

Rotary information was provided by Bobby Saunders. "What is Rotary?" was the subject. The information was both informative and very interesting. Good job, Bobby!

Newest members of the Bethel Historical Society include David C. Gerrish, Sr., and his wife Jean P. Gerrish of Marshall, Va., and Robert J.F. Albota of Ottawa, Canada. All of these members have joined at the patron level.

The latest contribution to the 1986 Endowment Campaign has been made by Margaret Joy Tibbetts of Bethel in memory of W. Ashby Tibbetts and Mary Tibbetts Freeman.

An article on the society's publication of "East Bethel Road" appears in the latest issue of Maine History News, the quarterly publication of the Maine League of Historical Societies and Museums. Announcement also is made in this issue of the annual meetings of the MLHSM which will be held in the Blaine House in Augusta on Sept. 27. The league will host a luncheon honoring Governors of Maine since World War II. A copy of the first volume of a compilation of the Inaugural Addresses of the Governors of Maine will be presented to Governor Joseph E. Brennan for the Blaine House. Luncheon guests and their gubernatorial terms include: Horace Hildreth (1946-1949), Burton M. Cross (1953-1955), Edmund S. Muskie (1955-1959), Robert N. Haskell (1959), John H. Reed (1959-1967), Kenneth M. Curtis (1967-1975), and Governor Brennan (1979-1987). Anyone interested in further details should call the society office at 824-2908.

Plans are underway for the annual Sudbury Canada Days, the society's summer heritage festival. The dates are Aug. 9-10 and volunteers are always needed to demonstrate old-time crafts, perform in the variety show or help with any of the many activities planned. Anyone interested is cordially invited to call the society office.

The latest addition to the society's archives is "Norway in the Forties" by Dr. Osgood N. Bradbury. This book, edited by society life member Rev. Don L. McAllister, contains a wealth of data on Norway's earlier days but also records the movement of families through Oxford County. This book is available to researchers during regular business hours, Monday-Friday, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.
